

Tim Nash

Chief Executive

Edwin Coe

Tim joined the firm in 2008. As Chief Executive at Edwin Coe, his goal is to ensure that the firm meets and exceeds clients' expectations. This goal is met by hiring and retaining skilled and motivated lawyers and their staff, and ensuring the firm's systems and processes allow them to deliver top quality service.

As the firm's compliance officer for finance and administration, Tim is also responsible designing and maintaining many of the risk and compliance processes for the firm.

Prior to joining Edwin Coe, Tim was Group Financial Controller at Eversheds, responsible for statutory and management reporting, working closely with the directors of the various support departments.

Starting his career with Electronic Data Systems in their International Finance team and later leading the finance team supporting their CAD/CAM division in France, Tim further deepened his commercial experience by joining Nortel, also in France. After moving back to the UK in 1996 with Price Waterhouse (later PwC), Tim then joined Freshfields Bruckhaus Deringer's global litigation group as Business Support Manager, followed by a short stint at Clifford Chance as Head of Financial Operations.
